THEATERS

"Held by the Enemy"

A delightful drama of love, hate, human emotions, with a slight sprinkling of martial scenes, is "Held by the Enemy," the Paramount picture presentation of William Gillette's famous play.

There is just enough of the Civil War flavor about "Held by the Enemy" to make it thoroughly relishable. The story has to do with Rachel Hayne, a beautiful young southern girl, who is supposedly a widow who lives with her family in an old manor which is in possession of the federal troops commanded by Colonel Prescott. That officer loves Rachel and he is about to avow his reciprocated love, when Captain Hayne, the husband, turns up. Hayne escapes after being sentenced to death and after being wounded is recaptured. After several stirring incidents he commits suicide.

"Golden Shower"

A screen visualization of how gold often contaminates and ruins the very person it enriches is presented with startling effect by Vitagraph's new picture, "The Golden Shower," with Gladys Leslie in the stellar role.

Miss Leslie is cast in the role of Mary Kane, a country girl student at a great college, who becomes inveigled into the life of a dancing girl in a cabaret. She assumes the name of Mona McCree and becomes the object of evil attentions by "Broadway Al" Campbell, a profligate. In the end she inherits his millions, but the fortune destroys the girl's name and reputation, and bids fair to ruin her for life. However, Mary's high character carries her through to a fine romance.

"A Fallen Idol"

This is the latest and best of the William Fox photoplays in which Evelyn Nesbit has appeared as a star. The play calls for emotional acting of the first order and Miss Nesbit answers this call admirably in the role of a Hawaiian princess. Every expectation of the loyal friends she has made here in previous successes was fulfilled.

The story is a romantic tale of love, intrigue, and retribution, taking the audience from beautiful California to the tropical scenes of Hawaii.—Adv.

Hudson and Essex Lead the New Competition

(A Statement by the Hudson Motor Car Company and Essex Motors.)

Selective buying again rules the automobile market.

Inability to secure delivery of his first choice no longer forces the buyer to accept a less wanted car.

The return of competition to a basis of merit is welcomed by Hudson and Essex in common with all builders of established reputation.

They have not regarded competition on the basis of ability to deliver as at all a good thing for the motor industry. That situation invited many to plunge into automobile manufacture and exploit the quick profits seizable from unprecedented demand.

A Situation That Was Inevitable

Now once more the task of supplying the motor car demand devolves upon the builders, whose organization, experience and product have proved their fitness to survive through years of competition that recognized none's right to live except by superior merit.

We could not, in candor, urge that Hudson and Essex alone are deserving of consideration to the exclusion of all other cars.

We know there are other thoroughly good cars, some even that can well wear the name of great cars, and we acknowledge the ability, application and loyalty to ideals which alone could have produced them.

Yet today, more than 100,000 Hudson Super-Sixes are in service. It is, and has been for five years, the largest selling fine car in the world. Consider if its title to leadership were less deserved if the flaw would not have appeared in five years.

The Same Men Also Build Essex

And Essex shares this prestige. Not merely because Hudson builds the Essex, and therefore pre-pledges to it all the experience and knowledge gained in building the Super-Six. Rather because the Essex, not content with this endorsement, has established its own place with such famous records as four times breaking the transcontinental record with four different cars, and in establishing the world's 50-hour endurance mark. And nearly 50,000 owners also know and acclaim its worth.
